

Visiting Professor in Sociology

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology invites applications for a one-year teaching position in sociology (2012/13). The successful candidate will teach introduction to sociology, quantitative research methods (which may include social network analysis and GIS), and topics courses in the applicant's areas of expertise. Areas that would be particularly welcome include the sociology of education, the sociology of work, urbanism and urban studies, and critical approaches to law and incarceration. Lewis & Clark College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity (<http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html>). We encourage applicants to explain how their teaching at Lewis & Clark might contribute to a learning community that values diversity. The normal teaching load for this position is six courses per academic year. Applications should include: (1) a curriculum vita; (2) a letter of application which includes a statement of teaching experience and research interests; (3) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (4) a sample course syllabus; (5) two letters of recommendation sent under separate cover; and (6) graduate transcripts. Send to: Chair, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Lewis & Clark College, 0615 SW Palatine Hill Road, Portland, OR 97219, terry@lclark.edu. Review of applications will begin on Feb. 6 and continue until the position is filled. Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist(s).
