

19TH AND 20TH CENTURY U.S. HISTORY

Lewis & Clark College, a private liberal arts college with 2,000 undergraduates, invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in the Department of History beginning Fall 2014.

The department seeks a candidate who can teach introductory nineteenth and twentieth century United States history survey courses. In addition candidates may teach topical or thematic courses such as Civil War/Reconstruction, U.S. West, African-American History or African Diaspora, American Indian/Native American History, Northwest or Portland history, Built Environment, and Environmental history. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment as a tenure-track member of the faculty. Potential for excellent teaching and research at an undergraduate institution is essential. Usual load is five courses per academic year and may include regular participation in the College's general education program. The College is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity. (See <http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html>)

A complete application must include (1) a letter of application which includes a statement of teaching philosophy, how the applicant's teaching at the College will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity, teaching experience, and research interests; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (4) sample of scholarship; (5) graduate transcripts, and (6) three letters of recommendation (uploaded separately by the referees). All materials should be addressed to Chair, Maureen Healy and must be submitted via apply.interfolio.com/14074. Click "Apply" to create your free account. To ensure full consideration, application materials must be received by November 1st.

Lewis & Clark College, located in Portland, OR, is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The College will conduct background checks on the finalists for the position.
