

Certificate in Global Law

The Certificate in Global Law (the "Certificate"), which will be awarded to qualified Lewis & Clark Law School students at graduation, recognizes successful curriculum concentration in global law. A student who satisfies the requirements for the Certificate will be entitled to a certificate denominated "Certificate in Global Law." Students who believe that they will fulfill the requirements must complete an application that is available from the Registrar in order to be awarded a certificate.

Students qualify for the Certificate by satisfying the following requirements.

1. Course Requirements

Students must complete four (4) core classes:

- Public International Law (3 credits)
- International Business Transactions (3 credits)
- International Dispute Resolution (3 credits), and
- Advanced Legal Research: International & Foreign Law (2 credits).

In addition, students must earn five (5) additional credits in classes on the following list:

Climate Change (3 credits)
Comparative Criminal Law & Procedure Seminar (3 credits)
Comparative Constitutional Law (2 credits)
Conflict of Laws (3 credits)
Immigration Law (3 credits)
International Art and Cultural Property Law (2 credits)
Individual Research (up to 3 credits)¹
International Business Arbitration Seminar (2 credits)
International Criminal Law Seminar (2 credits)
International Environmental Law (3 credits)
International Environmental Law Project (6 credits)
International Human Rights Seminar (2 credits)
International Humanitarian Law: Global War & Terror (2 Credits)
International Intellectual Property Law (3 credits)
International Investment Law Seminar (2 credits)
International Tax (3 credits)
International Water Law Seminar (2 credits)
International Wildlife Law (2 credits)
Law of Global Labor Markets Seminar (2 credits)
Moot Court: Jessup International Law Competition (1 credit)²

¹ To qualify, the individual research paper would have to be on a global law topic, to be approved by the Program Director.

² Students who participate in this class in successive years may count only 1 credit toward the Certificate.

Race & the Law (2 credits)
Reproduction & the Law (2 credits)
Trade & Environment (3 credits)
U.S. Foreign Relations Law (2 credits)

Students are advised to check this list yearly, as new classes may be added and some may not be offered every year. In addition, certain classes may not be included on this list despite having a global law focus, such as if they are new or are offered only periodically. Classes not on the list may be deemed to count toward the non-core additional credit requirement in the discretion of the Director of the Global Law Certificate Program (the “Program”).

Externships: Students may satisfy three (3) of the five (5) non-core additional credits required for the Certificate by the use of credits earned through an externship involving a substantial global law element, either in a foreign country or in the United States, approved by the Program Director. The externship may be with a governmental agency, a non-governmental organization, an international organization, a corporation or other business entity, or a law firm.

Transfer Credits: Course credit may also be allowed, with the approval of the Program Director, for one course, of up to three (3) units of credit, taken at another law school. In that event, only the credit earned for that course will be applied to the Certificate. The grade earned for the course will not be counted in determining the student's GPA for the Certificate.

Ungraded Courses: With the exception of externship credits, and unless approved by the Program Director, no more than four (4) units of credit (including units transferred from another law school) used to qualify for the Certificate may be taken on a credit/no credit basis.

Student Directed Reading Groups: With the approval of the Program Director, students may satisfy one (1) of the five (5) non-core additional credits required for the Certificate with a Student Directed Reading Group (“SDRG”) on a global law topic. This would count as one (1) of the four (4) permitted ungraded credits.

Dual Certificates: Students may not use credits from a class toward satisfaction of the Certificate requirements if they are using those credits toward satisfaction of the requirements for another Certificate at Lewis & Clark.

2. Writing Requirement

Students must complete one substantial research paper exclusively on one or more topics relating to global law. To qualify, the paper must meet the criteria for a Capstone paper, and be one of the following: (a) a paper written to fulfill course requirements in a seminar approved for the Program, (b) an Individual Research paper, for a minimum of two (2) semester hours, (c) a paper written to fulfill the requirements for an externship, or (d) a paper written to fulfill course requirements in a seminar not specifically approved for the Program. Students who plan to fulfill the writing requirement with options

(b), (c), or (d) must have the approval of the Program Director. Papers not written for graded credit do not satisfy this requirement.

3. Grade Point Requirement

Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average of B (3.00) or better in classes taken and selected as qualifying for the Certificate. No credits transferred from another law school and accepted for use toward a Certificate, or credits for a class taken on a credit/no credit basis and approved by the Program Director, will be used in computing the grade point average.

Note: When the approval of the Program Director will be needed in order for a particular course, externship, SDRG or paper to count toward the Certificate, it is highly recommended that such approval be sought in advance (i.e., before taking the course, externship or SDRG or writing the paper), if possible.
