Visiting Assistant Professor of International Affairs: Lewis & Clark College, a private liberal arts college with 2,000 undergraduates, invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professorship in the Department of International Affairs, beginning in fall 2013. Preferred teaching fields include international political economy combined with international relations theory. Ph.D. or terminal degree in a field central to international relations is preferred at the time of appointment. Preference will be given to applicants with interdisciplinary exposure to international relations issues. Potential for excellent teaching at an undergraduate institution is essential. Usual load is five courses per academic year. The College is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity. (See http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html) A complete application must include (1) a letter of application which includes a statement of teaching philosophy, how the applicant's teaching at the College will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity, teaching experience, and research interests; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (4) sample of scholarship (equivalent in length to one article or one dissertation or book chapter); (5) graduate transcripts, and (6) three letters of recommendation (uploaded separately by the referees). All materials should be addressed to Bob Mandel, Chair International Affairs Search Committee, and must be submitted via Interfolio:

https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/21201

Click "Apply" to create your free account. Review of applications will begin on March 15, 2013 and continue until the position is filled. Lewis & Clark College, located in Portland, OR, is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The College will conduct background checks on the finalists for the position.