

Visiting Assistant Professor of United States History

Lewis & Clark College, a private liberal arts college with 2,000 undergraduates, invites applications for a one-year replacement visiting assistant professorship in the Department of History for the 2016-17 academic year.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or be advanced ABD candidates in history. Potential for excellent teaching at an undergraduate institution is essential. The course load will be five courses, ranging from general surveys in US history to upper-level special topics courses in the visitor's area of research expertise. Ability to teach Native American history and/or history of the American West is desirable.

A complete application must include:

1. a letter of application including a statement of teaching philosophy, teaching experience and research interests, as well as a description of how the applicant's teaching and/or work in the campus community will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity.
2. a curriculum vitae
3. evidence of teaching effectiveness
4. three letters of recommendation (uploaded separately by the referees).
5. graduate transcripts

All materials should be addressed to David Campion, Chair US History Search Committee, and must be submitted via Interfolio (<http://apply.interfolio.com/33881>) .

Lewis & Clark is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world and affirms the educational benefits of diversity (see <http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html>).

Review of applications will begin on February 15, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Lewis & Clark College, located in Portland, Oregon, is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist. Lewis & Clark College is an equal opportunity employer.
