

THURSDAY, MARCH 16TH

STUDENT-FACULTY
PARTNERSHIPS:
ESTABLISHING MORE
INCLUSIVE PEDAGOGICAL PRACTICES

DR. ALISON COOK-SATHER

In this lecture, Dr. Cook-Sather will present an innovative and widely successful method of engaging faculty in partnerships with students in order to develop and enact more inclusive pedagogical practices. Please join us for this hands-on, interactive presentation.

Lewis & Clark's Teaching Excellence Program is funded by a generous grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

Gregg
Pavilion

3:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Alison Cook-Sather, Ph.D.

Director of the Teaching and Learning Institute at Bryn Mawr and Haverford
Colleges

Mary Katharine
Woodworth Professor of Education at Bryn Mawr
College

BROUGHT TO YOU BY:

Lewis & Clark's
Teaching Excellence
Program (TEP)

RSVP to TEP Director,
Jerusha Detweiler-Bedell
tep@lclark.edu or at
https://college.lclark.edu/programs/teaching\_excellence/