

Tenure-Track Position for Assistant Professor in Sociology

Lewis & Clark College, a private liberal arts college with 2,000 undergraduates, invites applications for a tenure-track position in sociology at the assistant professor level in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology beginning fall 2020. We seek candidates whose research and teaching complement the department's strengths. Areas of particular interest include: Critical criminal justice; education; global capitalism; medical sociology; science and technology studies. Preferred areas of regional complementarity include the United States. PhD. or terminal degree in sociology required at the time of appointment as a tenure-track member of the faculty. The usual teaching load is five courses per academic year and will at times include teaching critical theory and research design. It may also include participation in the College's general education program. Potential for excellent teaching and an appreciation of the role of research at an undergraduate liberal arts institution are essential. Applications should include: (1) curriculum vitae; (2) a letter of application which includes a statement of teaching experience and research interests, as well as a description of how the applicant's teaching and/or work in the campus community will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity; (3) statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness; (4) sample of scholarship (published articles and/or works in progress); (5) three letters of recommendation (uploaded separately by the referees); and (6) graduate transcripts. All materials should be addressed to Professor Jennifer Hubbert, Chair, SOAN Search Committee and must be submitted via Interfolio, <http://apply.interfolio.com/65333>. Click "Apply" to create your free account. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019, and continue until the position is filled.

Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist. Lewis & Clark College is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to status as a protected veteran or a qualified individual with a disability, or other protected status, such as race, religion, color, national origin, sex or age. Questions regarding Title IX may be referred to the Title IX Coordinator or OCR. The College is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity. (See www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html)