Visitng Assistant Professor - Ecology / Conservation Biology

Open Date
June 3, 2021

Description
The Department of Biology at Lewis & Clark College invites applications for a one-year visiting assistant professor of Biology, beginning August 1, 2021. In particular we seek candidates with expertise in research fields related to Conservation Biology that could include Ecology, Plant Biology, Landscape Ecology, Aquatic Ecology or Disease Ecology. This position carries a 5-course teaching load distributed across two 15 week semesters. Candidates should be prepared to teach an introductory 200-level non-lab course centered on core concepts of ecology and evolution (Bio 201) with two sections in the Fall, 2021, and one section in the Spring, 2022. In Spring, 2022, the candidate will also teach an upper division elective course with a lecture and a field-based lab (2 courses) in their field of expertise.

Our nationally recognized Biology Dept. enjoys a warm, collegial atmosphere, and has a strong commitment to student learning and involvement in our active, externally funded research programs. For more information about the Department and our curriculum visit: http://www.lclark.edu/dept/biology/. The College is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity. (See http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html).

Qualifications
Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Biology and expertise in Conservation Biology, Ecology, Plant Biology or a related field. Successful candidates will also have experience teaching in one of these fields.

Application Instructions
Application materials, consisting of a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference, should be submitted electronically to: http://apply.interfolio.com/88631 The cover letter should include an explanation of the applicant’s suitability for this position and a description of how they would contribute to campus diversity and a culture of inclusion. Review of applications will begin June 11 and continue until the position is filled. Lewis & Clark College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist(s). Lewis & Clark College is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to status as a protected veteran or a qualified individual with a disability, or other protected status, such as race, religion, color, national origin, sex or age. Questions regarding Title IX may be referred to the Title IX Coordinator or OCR.