

How to Apply for Financial Aid

File the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) for the 2022-23 academic year by February 15, 2022.

- ▶ Apply online at FAFSA.gov and enter the L&C Federal School Code: 003197
- ▶ Use the IRS Data Retrieval Tool to transfer your 2020 tax information into the FAFSA
- ▶ Parent information is not required
- ▶ Don't wait until you are admitted – file as soon as possible after October 1, 2021

You will receive a Student Aid Report (SAR) from the federal application processor confirming the information you submitted. Read your SAR carefully, and take action or submit additional documentation if necessary.

Your 2022-23 financial aid offer will be prepared in the spring after your FAFSA is fully processed and we are notified of your admission to Lewis & Clark Law School. You will receive an email notification when your offer letter is available to view online. If you decide to attend L&C and wish to borrow loans, the required processing steps should be completed online by July 1. Reapply for financial aid every year by filing a new FAFSA as soon as possible after October 1.

Financial Aid Resources for Law Students

Scholarships and Grants

- Lewis & Clark Law School scholarships and grants are awarded by the Admissions Committee. All admitted students, including international and undocumented individuals, receive automatic consideration for these awards. No separate application is necessary. Amounts vary.
- Search the AccessLex Law School Scholarship Databank for outside scholarship opportunities.
- Enrolled students are encouraged to participate in MAX by AccessLex[®], a free personal finance program designed exclusively for law students with scholarship incentives built in for motivation.

- Eligible financial aid applicants will be offered an aid package that fully covers their Cost of Attendance, but you may not need to borrow the maximum amount of loans available. Please refer to the next page to see three sample budgets for living expenses.
- We encourage you to consider ways to live less expensively, budget carefully, and borrow conservatively.

Educational Loans and Creditworthiness

Most law students will need to access loan funding beyond the amount available under the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan program at some point during their enrollment. Approval for the Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan or a private educational loan is decided after a review of the applicant’s credit history. Check your credit at AnnualCreditReport.com.

Do what you can to improve your credit now; identify and resolve any issues before enrolling in law school.

Keep in mind that educational loans are not intended to cover prior obligations such as credit card debt, auto loans, or other consumer debt. Pay off or pay down as much consumer debt as you can before enrolling in law school.

Loan Repayment

Law school indebtedness varies from student to student and the amount you borrow is up to you. When it comes time to repay your loans, you will have the opportunity to choose from several repayment plans. Under debt-driven plans, the monthly payment amount is calculated based on total debt, interest rate, and length of repayment period. Under income-driven plans, the monthly payment amount is calculated as a percentage of your discretionary income.

Learn more about repayment options at StudentAid.gov/Repay and compare plans using the Loan Simulator. Those who intend to work in the public interest should also explore the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program \(PSLF\) and the L&C Loan Repayment Assistance Program \(LRAP\).

Financial Aid for Indirect Costs

Financial aid is available not only for tuition and fees, but also for indirect costs. Rent, utilities, food, transportation, and personal expenses fall into this category, and together they are commonly referred to as “living expenses.” Surveys of our student body show a wide spending range for living expenses and we set our Cost of Attendance with this in mind. The components of our Cost of Attendance are listed on the previous page. Currently the maximum allowances for living expenses total to $25,200, but it is important to recognize that your actual expenses may be significantly less than that.

When you accept your financial aid we want you to borrow the amount that is right for you. Loan requests can always be less than the maximum amount offered. If you find yourself needing additional funds later in the year, you can contact the Office of Financial Aid and request any portion of your remaining loan eligibility. Individual Cost of Attendance increases can also be considered for personal health insurance premiums, the one-time purchase of a computer, and dependent care costs for small children.

Sample 9-Month Budgets for Living Expenses

Below are a few sample budgets based on information collected from our students. These samples are intended to give you a general idea of what to expect so you can plan your finances during law school. Keep in mind that living expenses vary depending on each student’s own personal needs and circumstances. We encourage you to think of creative ways to reduce your expenses while enrolled to help minimize your loan repayment obligations after graduation.

Single Student Living on a Frugal Budget (9 Months)
Rent ($650/month)	$5,850.00
Utilities, Renters Insurance, and Food	$3,330.00
Transportation* (includes mileage, insurance, and parking permit)	$2,043.00
Miscellaneous Personal Expenses	$2,835.00
Total Living Expenses	$14,058.00

Single Student Living on a Modest Budget (9 Months)
Rent ($1,200/month)	$10,800.00
Utilities, Renters Insurance, and Food	$5,040.00
Transportation* (includes mileage, insurance, and parking permit)	$2,043.00
Miscellaneous Personal Expenses	$4,950.00
Total Living Expenses	$22,833.00

Married Student With a Family Living on a Mid-Range Budget (9 Months)
Rent ($1,600/month)	$14,400.00
Utilities and Food	$7,650.00
Transportation* (includes mileage, insurance, and parking permit)	$2,043.00
Miscellaneous Personal Expenses	$4,950.00
Total Living Expenses	$29,043.00

* In these sample budgets the Transportation estimates assume students live within 3 miles of campus. Students may reduce their transportation costs by purchasing a discounted monthly pass for the TriMet system and using public transit to travel to school. Lewis & Clark provides a 75% subsidy for this unlimited ride pass. Please note that students who purchase a subsidized TriMet pass may not also purchase a semester parking permit.
